DAHLIA GARDENS

presents the following introductions from our Gardens and other growers, for the Season of 1958

KEMP'S MEMORIAL (Kemp - Swoboda - Parrella)

Kemp's Memorial is an Informal Decorative with an exceptionally high center, a blended autumn gold color with soft bluish undertones. It grows normally 5 - 6 feet tall in well spreading bushes, holding the immense blooms in an ideal three-quarter-facing position on canelike stems high above the deep-green leathery foliage.

Three years ago, before Daddy Kemp of Little Silver, N. J., died, he gave what he considered "the best seedling he ever originated" to his lifelong friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. Swoboda of Ridgefield Park, N. J. with the request "to grow it in his memory."

The Swobodas who placed many of Daddy Kemp's introductions in the winner classes on the show tables, grew this wonderful dahlia for three successive seasons and everybody who saw it in their garden said: "There is nothing like it."

The stock was never propagated, but always grown from clump divisions under natural conditions, without forcing and nobody else has any of it.

Field grown blooms are normally 12 inches in diameter and 7 to 8 inches deep; under cultivation and using fertilizers sparingly, the bushes will produce blooms 16 inches in diameter and 10 inches deep.

Kemp's Memorial is a prolific rootmaker, but has to be planted early for early blooms. Specific growing instructions for best results will be given with every order.

There has never been anything like this magnificent dahlia in the true autumn color class and in order to give it the widest possible introduction in memory of Daddy Kemp we are offering for the first time,

BRIEF SUGGESTIONS TO THE AMATEUR ON HOW TO GROW BETTER DAHLIAS

1. Select easily grown varieties and those giving full satisfaction.
2. Prepare the selected planting spot well and place the supporting stake.
3. Dig a hole next to the stake, about 10 inches in diameter and 7 to 8 inches deep, and place one handful of bonemeal in the hole, or any other recommended fertilizer and mix thoroughly with the soil before planting.
4. Place roots in flat position with the sprout or “eye” facing upwards. Cover lightly with about 2 inches of soil. In doing this be careful not to damage the sprout. As the plant grows, fill around the stem with soil.
5. Do not plant too early. At times, too early planting spoils good roots. I would suggest planting from June 1st on, except in climates where a short growing season is prevalent. In that case use your own judgment.
6. Keep the soil well cultivated throughout the season, and prevent weeds from outgrowing the plant.
7. Water plants during hot weather at least once a week. Do not merely sprinkle them, but soak them. This must be done after sundown.
8. Tie the plant to the supportive stake with soft cord, at distance of 12 inches apart. This is done as an added security against destruction by wind and storm. Spray with any reliable parasiticide at least once every two weeks.
9. About August 1st, scatter a handful of bonemeal about 6 inches around the stem and rake it gently into the soil. Other fertilizers may be used if desired. Do not use excessive amounts of fertilizer as injury to the roots will result.
10. About August 15th, the same treatment as above is applied. Disbudding at this time aids in the formation of bigger and better flowers and longer stems. This should insure good results. If any other information is desirable, I will gladly forward you the same.
11. Spraying is advisable when necessary with any good recommended insecticide.

JUST A FEW OF OUR MANY TESTIMONIALS

Mr. Albert Parrella
New York, N. Y.
My Dear Friend:

As your slogan goes, "Leave it to Parrella and you have a surprise in store." Well Friend, I got more than a surprise with the Dahlia Roots that I ordered from you a short time ago. I went to the Post Office yesterday morning seeking my package from you, and sure enough it was there—you can draw a mental picture of my thoughts on my way home, just what did Mr. Parrella pack in such a large container and weighing so much—on my arrival at home I proceeded to appease my anticipation and opened the package and it is needless for me to say what I did find therein—losing no time I planted the whole lot and with the help of the Good Lord I will have something to show this year.

Parrella Dahlias Known and Grown the World Over! Why Not?

Parrella Dahlia Gardens,

Dear Sirs:

Last spring I purchased and planted 100 Dahlia seeds from you. I was delighted with the results of my venture. I grew about sixty plants from the packet. I am quite sure that more plants came up but I was out of town for one month so was unable to get the plants out of the cold frame as soon as they were ready, so they became too crowded and some were lost. I feel that I cannot properly express the delight I had with those plants, they bloomed very freely until cut down by frost one week before Thanksgiving. All but four of them produced double blooms of large size and really breath-taking beauty and those were colors I had never seen in Dahlias before.

Mrs. Wm. W. C.

Dear Mr. Parrella:

Just a line to thank you for the lovely Dahlias you sent to me. "Linda Marschner" was the talk of the neighborhood — a Flower Show by itself; ten to twelve large blooms out at one time and always in bloom.

HOW TO GROW DAHLIA FROM SEED

There are many ways that dahlia seeds are started, and grown, on account of the different climatic conditions, and the length of the growing season, here in New York City, I have been getting wonderful results as follows: About April 1st, I select an open sunny location in my garden and spade this to a depth of about 8 inches and rake the soil until it is finely broken, and not lumpy, then with a hoe make trenches about 4 inches in depth and about 12 inches apart.

Then place a seed about every 2 inches apart in these trenches and cover with about one half inch of soil, water lightly and cover with about 2 or 3 inches of peat moss, as a protection against a slight frost or cold. About May 1st carefully remove the peat moss and in another week or two you will see the young dahlia plants breaking through the ground, add a little more soil to the trench and around the plants that are showing above ground, so that they will get better and stronger root formation. About June 1st many of these plants will be about 4 or 5 inches above the ground, showing two to three sets of leaves and the stems will be about the thickness of an ordinary match. They are then about the right size for transplanting.

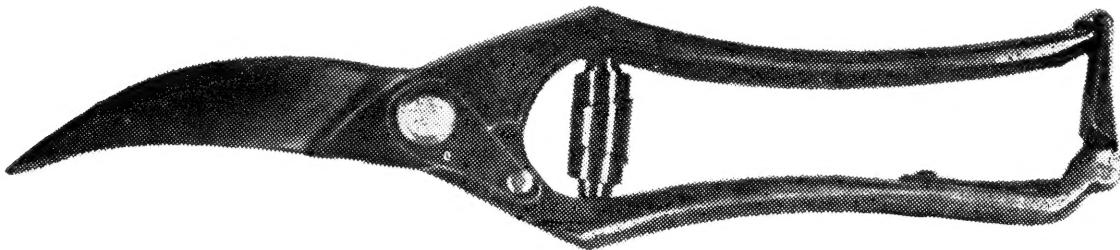

In colder climates and where the growing season is not so long, is to start the seeds in boxes or flats about 20 inches long, 12 inches wide and 4 inches deep. Make 3 or 4 trenches about 2 inches deep and plant the seed about every 2 inches apart in these trenches and cover with about a half inch of soil. These seeds should be planted about 2 months before it is reasonably safe to transplant the young plants out into the open.

The box should be kept in a warm room and near a window that faces a sunny location. About 2 or 3 weeks later, they will be breaking out of the ground and when they are about 3 or 4 inches high, they should be removed from the box and transplanted into 3 inch flower pots, and on warm, sunny days, should be left out into the open to gradually harden, and when you believe that the time is right for their permanent transplanting as described above, then plant them as directed, and they will grow into strong, healthy plants, as good if not better than plants grown from tubers.

Of course if you have a greenhouse or a cold frame facilities, it will simplify matters by starting your seeds about March 15th and using the above last two paragraph principles.

Now at last I can offer a shear that is especially designed to get at the hard-to-reach parts of the clump and so permit the cutting of the greatest possible number of eye-bearing divisions with least amount of effort. And when this work is done, the shears can, of course, be used for all kinds of general pruning.
